

UPDATE on the
New TV Series: Ultimate Energy Showdown!

NEW ENERGY MOVEMENT, with your help, has succeeded in raising $5,000 necessary for the successful launch of the Ultimate Energy Showdown!

This production, planned as a great new television/Internet series by award-winning documentary producer Christopher Toussaint (Free Energy: The Race to Zero Point and Cold Fusion: Fire From Water, among others), will highlight the inventors of breakthrough clean energy technologies, and rigorously test their performance claims. Each episode will feature three or four new technologies and put them to the test, so you can decide which ones have real promise and which ones are bunk.

Now is the time for real New Energy to break out in a big way, and —by joining together as a dedicated community, recognizing the crucial impact New Energy will have on our lives, and the life of the planet itself— we’ve helped kick open the gate! With the funds we’ve raised, Christopher is now able to attend key media industry conferences and get in front of network executives to pitch his concept for Ultimate Energy Showdown! Getting this show on the air would be a major boost to legitimate inventors and their game-changing technologies, and a giant step toward our New Energy future!

Please continue to help!

Through support for programs like this, “booster grants” to individual inventors, educational public presentations, sponsorship of conferences, and collaboration with allied organizations and concerned citizens, NEW ENERGY MOVEMENT continues to be on the leading edge of that “tidal wave of wisdom” so necessary for the healing of our society and planet.

Please consider a tax-deductible donation to NEW ENERGY MOVEMENT as part of your ongoing support in bringing the vision of a safe, clean New Energy era into reality as soon as possible. You are critical to this vision and its realization!
